Look here, Mr. Orchardist, that crop has cost you a whole lot of anxiety. Your weather eye has been watchful day and night, fearing for its safety.

And now that it's safely harvested, are you going to let up on your vigilance? How about the safety of the proceeds?

When you harvest your dollar crop, store it in this bank.

Then you may rest assured it is absolutely secure.

MRS. EMILY PANNELL GARD.

There are undoubtedly several names that were unintentionally not included in the list of Campbell boys and girls attending higher institutions of learning. The following have come to our notice: Ira Brown and Clark Waterhouse at the U. of C., Miss Agnes Stewart and Miss Ruth Cowles, San Jose Normal, and Miss Helen Cowles, Pomona College.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Alexander were very happily surprised last Sunday on returning from church to find Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Carpenter of San Francisco, Miss Hattie Carpenter of Lane Hospital, San Francisco, and the Misses E. B. and Elizabeth McFadden. Miss E. B. McFadden has just returned from Chicago where she has been overseeing the publication of a school textbook, which she has written. Miss McFadden is a teacher in the San Francisco Normal and Miss Elizabeth in the San Jose Normal.

Making Himself Heard.

Samuel Rogers, the poet, is no doubt a great wit, but he has a turn for malice and even brutality. Some one once asked him why he never opened his mouth except to speak evil of his neighbors. He replied, "I have a very weak voice, and if I did not say malicious things I should never be heard."—Memories of the Duchess of Dino.

Nightmare.

Often nightmare is caused by an overloaded stomach, and then the remedy is to eat a light evening meal. If nightmare is the cause of high mental tension, which it often is, then spend the evening in some diversion that does not require much mental effort and yet keeps the mind from dwelling on disturbing subjects.—New York Journal.

An Illustration.

"Dad, what is meant by carrying coals to Newcastle?"
"It's a figure of speech, my boy—like trying to tell something to a graduate class that it don't know."—Pittsburgh Post.

Rev. Wilson of Dakota, Ill., former pastor of the Walker Templetons back East, and his mother, were guests at the Templeton home on Latimer avenue last week.

Mr. S. G. Nelson moved into his new home on north second street yesterday. Mr. Nelson has a very nice modern home which the family will enjoy and Campbell is glad to have these good citizens nearer.

The morning service in the Methodist church Sunday will be in charge of Mr. James Kennedy, a local preacher of First church, San Jose. There will be no service in the evening, excepting the Epworth League at 6:30.

Jacob Enemark and wife of Alta, Ia., are guests of their old friends, the Chas. Townsend family, having arrived from the Fair Saturday. On Sunday, the two families motored to the Big Basin returning via La Cruz and Watsonville.

Mrs. Josie Young and son, of Los Angeles, were here last week visiting their old friends, the W. Templeton family. They will go to Kansas after seeing the fair, where Mrs. Young will look after her property interests.

Messrs. Harry Peoples of Portland, Ore., and Eugene Peoples of Raymond, Wash., arrived last week for a visit with their sister, Mrs. Gill, and nephews, Gill Brothers, the dairymen, on San Tomas road. Mr. Harry Peoples was one of the early residents in this valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sutter enjoyed a week-end visit with Mr. Sutter's cousin, Henry E. Heilman of Ft. Dodge, Iowa. Mr. Heilman took in the Exposition at San Francisco and has gone on to Los Angeles and San Diego. He was very much pleased with this valley, of which Mr. Sutter showed him considerable.

Today's Troubles

What a blessed thing it is that we can forget! To-day's troubles look large, but a week hence they will be forgotten and buried out of sight. Says one writer: "If you would keep a book, and daily put down the things that worry you, and see what becomes of them, it would benefit you. You allow a fly to settle on you and plague you, and you lose your temper and justify yourself by being thrown off your balance by causes which you do not trace out. But if you could see what it was that threw you off your balance before breakfast, and put it down in a little book, and follow it up and follow it out, and ascertain what becomes of it, you would see what a fool you were in the matter." The art of forgetting is a blessed art, but the art of overlooking is quite as important. And if we should take time to write down the origin, progress and outcome of a few of our troubles, it would make us so ashamed of the fuss we make over them, that we should be glad to drop such things and bury them at once in eternal forgetfulness. Life is too short to be worn out in petty worries, frettings, hatreds and vexations.

Behind Belgian Trenches

Mr. Fred Spalding of Los Angeles will give a lecture Tuesday evening, Sept. 21st, at 8 p. m. in the Odd Fellows Hall.

Mr. Spalding is a Rhodes scholarship student at Oxford, England, and last winter was one of the American Rhodes scholarship students sent to Belgium to distribute the food supplies, etc., sent by the people of the United States to that stricken nation.

In this lecture he will tell of his experiences and show some 50 pictures of Belgium, before and during this great war.

Santa Clara County

Santa Clara county, one of the greatest fruit-producing counties of California, is heavily participating in the Palace of Horticulture at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. This district is featuring dried fruit of which there are more than sixty boxes of extra fancy fruit in the exhibit. Chief among the varieties are French, Imperial and Silver prunes, Moorpark apricots, Blenheim apricots, and Jumbo peaches.

During the cherry season Santa Clara county had in her exhibit some of the best cherries grown in California. The fruit was one and one-eighth inches in diameter with only eight rows to the box. Other fresh fruits that were exhibited consisted of the different varieties of berries. Olive oil plays a prominent part in the horticultural exhibit and has already captured a gold medal. The fruit exhibit is completed with a great collection of glass jars filled with processed fruits showing the fruit on the branches.

Santa Clara county has not neglected her nut exhibit which is one of the most lavish in the Palace of Horticulture. Today the county has more than 800 acres in walnuts and each year is showing an increase in the walnut acreage.

Famous for her fruits because she is blessed with good soil and equally good climatic conditions for their cultivation the county is now exporting a heavy tonnage of prunes, apricots and cherries annually.

With 800,000 acres of tillable soil more than 600,000 acres are devoted to bearing fruit orchards. There are now more than 6,000,000 prune trees in bearing and more than 500,000 apricot trees. There are more than 360,000 cherry trees in bearing and the remaining acreage is devoted to various other deciduous fruits which are produced in great commercial quantities.

Santa Clara county's showing at the Exposition is an especially creditable one and has done much towards convincing the world at large that Santa Clara county is the ideal home of deciduous fruit.

If I Knew You and You knew Me

If I knew you and you knew me 'Tis seldom we would disagree; But never having yet clasped hands, Both often fail to understand That each intends to do what's right, And treat each other "honor bright." How little to complain there'd be If I knew you and you knew me.

When'er we ship you by mistake, Or in your bill some error make, From irritation you'd be free If I knew you and you knew me. Or when the checks don't come on time, And customers send us nary a line, We'd wait without anxiety, If I knew you and you knew me.

Or when some goods you "fire back," Or make a "kick" on this or that, We'd take it in good part, you see, If I knew you and you knew me. With customers two thousand strong Occasionally things go wrong— Sometimes our fault, sometimes theirs— Forbearance would decrease all cares; Kind friend, how pleasant things would be If I knew you and you knew me.

Then let no doubting thoughts abide Of firm good faith on either side; Confidence to each other give, Living ourselves, let others live; But any time you come this way, That you will call we hope and pray; Then face to face we each shall see And I'll know you and you'll know me. —Swiped.

PARENTS

You should KNOW, when you send your child to school, whether or not its EYESIGHT is normal. The task imposed upon the eyes in school work is heavy and having your child's eyes in the best possible condition will play a very important part in its ability to study. Don't let false pride or prejudice against the wearing of glasses keep you from getting them for your child if it needs them. Your interest in its future demands it of you. I will be at Dr. Merrill's office Monday, Sept. 27. You can bring your child to me on that day or bring it to my office any other day and I will examine its eyes and advise you as to their needs without charge. If glasses are not needed I will tell you so, frankly. If they are you may be assured that I will furnish the best.

CRETONNES IN THE SUMMER

By Careful Selection, the Housewife May Make Her Rooms Things of Beauty.

It seems ages since the serviceable and smart cretonnes were introduced for hangings, coverings for furniture and cushions, etc., yet it still holds its place among the newest of goods shown for these purposes. Porch furniture, comfortable cushions and cane chairs for use on the summer piazzas are covered and, going further, large armchairs and low rockers for the living room are to be upholstered in this same good-wearing fabric.

But, of course, designs have changed somewhat; colors are brilliant, as usual, but among the newest are those with birds of gorgeous plumage on a background of black. Indeed, brilliant applies to most of the new cretonnes; they are vivid and still launder perfectly, making them an excellent choice for the hot suns of summer days.

The frill or flounce across the top of windows is still liked, only now it should be cut narrow and lifted a little directly in the center, with side draperies of the goods. The sides of these frills are a little longer than last year, and a variation liked is to catch the fullness in cluster of three or four tiny tucks or folds about three or four inches apart, not pressing them flat, but allowing them to stand out. Also the bottom of the frill, where caught up in the center, must be finished with a braid; as it should be cut in a curve, not in a straight line to be puckered shorter in the center, but cut curved. Still another variation shows the bottom of this frill cut in deep scallops and bound with braid.

Small tables covered with cretonne, over which the useful glass is placed, will be sought for porch and living room for various uses. One that should appeal to the housewife who just "loves a pretty bedroom" is to change ordinary furnishings into things of beauty by covering chests, tables and so on with cretonne; the table with the glass top bringing an almost elegant air into the atmosphere. If woodwork and furniture are hopelessly faded and worn a coat of light enamel with a slight tracery of blue or pink or delicate green and cretonne hangings, etc., to match will make a charming room of one that might be termed dismal and depressing, as some rooms have a habit of being.

A caution is to use plain paper or paper with small figures where a room is to be fitted out in gay cretonne; huge or startling designs will only cause discord.

FITTING UP THE BATHROOM

Some of the Requisites That Must Find a Place in the Modern Establishment.

In the days of the old tin tub almost anything in the way of a towel was good enough, so long as it was free from holes. The advent of sanitary plumbing, the white enamel tub and basin, the tile or tile-effect walls and the nickel and glass fixtures have made the up-to-date bathroom a different proposition. For instance, utility is no longer the sole standard by which the bathroom linens are judged. They must also harmonize with the enamel and glass fittings. As a result housewives now buy their towels in sets in white, with an initial or monogram in color. Many towel sets are bought in plain or fancy material without a monogram, which is worked by the housewife herself.

Bathroom sets of terry cloth are composed of two bath towels, a bath mat, and two face cloths, all with a plain or fancy border and an initial or monogram.

Jacquard figured bath towels are new and attractive. They have a deep pink or blue border and the hem is daintily embroidered in color. The edge is finished with a deep border or crochet of white and color. Turkish and huck towels are almost always embroidered in color and finished with a scalloped or crocheted edge.

Making Cocoa.

When making cocoa, you can greatly improve the flavor, obviating the "flat" taste, by adding a pinch of salt and a few drops of extract of vanilla.

Boiling several minutes makes cocoa richer in taste and more digestible, while it stands to reason that milk and not water makes much the richer beverage, although milk and water may be mixed. Condensed or evaporated milk makes delicious cocoa. Beat the cocoa for a few minutes before serving it.

Berry Roll.

To one quart of flour use one tablespoonful of butter, mix this together with a silver knife, add three tablespoonfuls of baking powder and enough milk to make a dough that will roll. Flour one quart of berries, sugar them to taste, put them in a layer on top of dough. Roll from one end. Cream for one hour. This should be served with hard sauce.

Milk Sherbet.

Add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice to one tablespoonful of sugar, and pour on gradually one-half cupful of milk (or one-half milk and one-half cream) then freeze.—Woman's Home Companion.

HAWAII'S MIXED POPULATION

IN the Hawaiian islands all races meet on a basis of near social equality, education is developed to a high degree and hospitality finds its best expression, according to Senator Cummins, says the Des Moines Register and Leader. The senator gave some impressions he received from his visit in the islands with the congressional investigating party.

"The first thing that impresses one is the unique condition socially and politically of the people," Senator Cummins said. "The total population is about 220,000. Of these 75,000 are Japanese, who came there when it was legal for them to do so or have been born on the islands. They are preserving the purity of their blood. They do not intermarry. The young men when they get ready to marry send for their 'picture brides' from Japan. An agency makes the matches by use of pictures. When the contract is made the girls come over to Hawaii, are met at the docks by their intended husbands and are married there according to the American law. Sees Japanese in Control.

"The Japanese are a prolific people and their numbers are increasing very rapidly without immigration. In fifteen or twenty years, if everything goes as now, the Japanese will absolutely control the islands. They are a clean and competent lot of people. They take on education more readily diminishing. They are not strongly addicted to work. But they are splendid entertainers. Most of them are highly educated. Indeed, it is quite remarkable to note how this race has been transformed from savagery to culture in 100 years. There are numbers of Koreans, Japaneans, Spaniards, Italians and various other peoples.

"Americans are comparatively few. They do the big business of the country. The descendants of the American missionaries are the richest class of the islands and stand the highest socially.

Industry of the Islands.

"There are two main industries—the raising of sugar cane and manufacture of sugar, and the raising of pineapples. Practically all of the tillable land is now devoted to these industries. Much of the country is mountainous and volcanic, and, therefore, untillable. There is no real opportunity to extend agriculture.

"Naturally, the people are opposed to free sugar. The burden of the speeches everywhere we were received was against removal of the tariff on sugar. They showed how it would ruin the industries of the islands until the Democrats in the party were fairly tormented by their arguments.

"Our entertainment in the islands was delightful. I never enjoyed myself more on any trip. The hotels than any people I have ever seen. All of them take advantage of the public schools, of which there are plenty of high standards.

"The schools are mainly patriotic. It seems that love of American institutions and the flag is encouraged particularly. The Japanese people there will remain Japanese. While I believe they will be good American citizens, there will arise the same kind of racial problem that we have here with the negro, for the white people in the island will not be dominated by the Japanese.

"There are many Chinese. They do intermarry and assimilate very rapidly with the Hawaiians and the Portuguese. The Chinese are much esteemed. They furnish much of the lower labor and have many of the smaller stores. The prevailing sentiment of Hawaii is that the bar against Chinese immigration ought to be removed so far as it affects the islands at least. Several delegations waited upon me during my stay to urge that this be done.

Natives Decrease in Numbers.

"The number of Portuguese is large. They make excellent American citizens. There is also a considerable colony of Filipinos. But the Filipinos have not proved valuable as workers, and their immigration has practically ceased.

"The native Hawaiians are rapidly were as good as any in this country and the hospitality of the people was unbounded."

Learning the Potato.

In Germany the people are being taught the difference between a potato with jacket on and with jacket off. How much bread sustains a man, how much meat, how the humbler and neglected foods outweigh in nutritive power the more fashionable—all these are being taught, and the lesson of them will continue into peace times to the greater benefit of the individual. If Americans can learn the lesson of use instead of waste, if they can learn how to buy and to know what they are buying it will cause remarkable changes in individual welfare in this country.

"All in the Lodge."

Two Manhattan physicians were enjoying the breeze from the front seat on the "hurricane deck" of a Riverside drive bus one bright afternoon, when part of their conversation was overheard.

It ran like this: "I performed an operation for appendicitis on the wife of a millionaire yesterday," said the stouter of the pair.

"Yes," said the other. "What was she suffering from?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE BOGY OF OLD AGE

SCARED AWAY BY FAMOUS MEN OF 80 YEARS YOUNG.

They Testify That Right Living and Sound Thinking Infuse New Life Constantly into Every Part of the Body.

Old age used to be regarded as an incurable disease; a time to be looked forward to with horror; a period of useless cumbering of the earth.

That bogy is scared away by the testimony of some of the living celebrities who have left the Biblical "three-score-and-ten" landmark far behind them.

Says John Burroughs, the great naturalist, at seventy-seven:

"I am in better health and more able to do my work at seventy-seven than I was at forty-seven or at fifty-seven. I have produced more manuscripts during the last three years than during any other three years of my life, and of a kind that has made unusual intellectual demands upon me.

"Old Age is not such a bugaboo after all. He is, in many ways, better to live with than Youth, because he leaves you more at your ease; you are in the calmer waters; the fret and fever of life have greatly abated. Old Age brings the philosophical mind; he brings a deeper, wider outlook upon life; he brings more tolerance and charity and good will. I did not squander my youth in excesses, and hence I am not bankrupt in my old age."

A novelist, who is six years older than Burroughs and who writes six hours a day, gives this recipe for staying young in the eighties:

"I have constantly given my mind plenty of new thoughts, and this mental diet has kept me young. It is routine that ages. Even in my sleep I am often mentally busy. I think I know consciously that when I rest I darken. I have constantly proved that intellectual activity infuses life into every part of the body. As far as possible I avoid anger or worry, for one hour of such debilitating mental exercise destroys all personal magnetism; and what passes between them and the soul I do not care to say.

"I keep my health because I keep my illusions. I will not believe that everyone is false. I will not believe that hope tells a flattering tale, or that friendship is only a name, or that true love has fled from earth and that the fear of God has vanished. And, above all other reasons for my good health, I place the vivifying power of love. Love is life."

Cardinal Gibbons, eighty years old and in the prime of his powers, says: "I believe firmly that the critical time of life for the making or marring of a sound constitution is the period of youth. The seeds of weakness are sown in the system then; by irregularity of life, particularly in the hours allotted for sleep and rest; by excess in eating and drinking; by grosser excesses and by lack of proper exercise.

"The rules of health from which I have never swerved from my youth are: Regularity of life, moderation in eating and drinking, exercise proper to my age and profession, avoidance of worry and an ever-abiding trust in God's providence. I have always been avaricious in the matter of sleep. 'Early to bed' is the wisest of all saws for him who has work to do and ambition to do it well."—Los Angeles Express.

Might Need Them.

"After de sarmint, t'mor' night, Brudder Simmons," said old Deacon Whang, "we'll all be gwine to have a rousin' hazanner meetin', and burn up yo' paragraphs, bless de Lawd!"

"Burn up which, sah?" returned Goat Simmons, the recently converted gambling man, in considerable astonishment.

"Yo' gamblin' paragraphs, sah. When a spo'tin' man gits converted and washed whiter dan snow dey aling burns up his kyahds and dice and sich scan'lous stuff as dat 'midst loud shouts o' praise. De Lawd is wid 'em, and de gamblin' brudder steps fo'th and flings his paragraphs on de flah and stands with bowed heads whilst—"

"Not me, sah! I ain't gwine to do no sich-uh thing!"

"But, muh goodness, brudder, yo am converted, isn't you, and—"

"Yassah! I's sho' converted, but dat don't make me a blame' fool! I mought backslide an' need dat stuff!"—Kansas City Star.

Use Zinc as Nuggets.

A shoveler in one of the Joplin zinc mines who had seen in the movies how the gold miners bought what they needed with gold nuggets, recently laid a small chunk of zinc ore on a bar counter and called for a beer. The bartender served the drink to him and laid down 20 cents in change, and of course the crowd laughed and cheered.

Such is the spirit of the Joplin zinc boom, with crude zinc ore now worth seven cents a pound, which is about 50 per cent higher than the refined product spelter has averaged for many years.—Wall Street Journal.

A Philosopher's Nightcap.

Many years ago I was in a northern country house in which Herbert Spencer was staying. At that time he suffered from sleeplessness, and one night on going to bed he said to me: "I am about to drink some hot brandy and water in order to restore the periodicity of my somniferous functions."—London Spectator.

Coiffures for the Small Turbans

Just how the modish girl manages to achieve certain things is the question that engages the attention of other girls and inspires the wonderment and awe of the sterner sex. How does she get on a tiny turban over the mass of fluffy hair which crowned her head aforesaid? Where has said hair disappeared? How does she take on, with the foolish little turban, a "no-body home" expression that suits it exactly but makes one look twice to be sure of her identity? Some of these questions can be answered and some cannot, because the maid herself hardly knows how she manages.

Just now some of the new hair dressing styles demand that the forehead shall be uncovered and that simplicity in the coiffure be made a feature of its attraction. Some daring souls have even gone to the extreme of combing the hair straight back from the forehead and twisting the ends into a plain, high coil at the top of the head. A round, young face with an abundance of hair to frame it may manage a coiffure of distinction by such simple means, but nearly all people need soft, curving lines about the forehead.

A clever coiffure is shown in the picture, in which the hair is not waved but laid in pretty curves about the face by pinning locks of it at each side to form what are called "water waves." One way of doing this is to dampen the hair and comb it back. A hand is then bound tightly about the head and the hair pulled forward in curves by means of the toilet comb. The waves are then pinned with small wire pins in the position left by the comb.

The back hair may be arranged in a psyche knot, as shown in the picture, or in three flat coils across the back of the head. Or it may be worn in a high coil at the top of the head. In any case the hair is not taken off until the hairdress is finished.

Narrow velvet bands about the hair are very fashionable, and they are also very useful in holding the hair in place.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Stripes Popular.

A season of stripes—everything; gowns, hats, sunshades, furniture! 'Twould be easier to delineate what is not striped than what is. The modish stripe of black and white, red and white and white with green, has found its way to square-shaped candles, too. Twenty cents each are these, and just the thing for some room—possibly yours.

Made Elegant by Needlecraft

No one fails to appreciate the charm of the lace-trimmed and fluffy night dresses that make up the mass of these garments. Always their producers are presenting new designs that captivate the eye with the dainty combination of ribbons and laces.

But there is another charm which belongs to the hand-embroidered gown—it is the charm of elegance as well as beauty. There is nothing quite equal to find hand embroidery in expressing a refinement of taste, in undergarments and other lingerie.

The needlewoman who can do fine work can provide herself with lingerie fit for a queen by virtue of her needlecraft. Or if she wishes to turn her accomplishment to profit she may be sure that an appreciative world is ready to admire—and pay for—expert needlework. No one should put a low price on first-class hand embroidery—not time alone, but ability to do and quality of workmanship are to be considered in fixing its price.

A fine hand-embroidered gown is shown in the picture. All edges are scalloped and finished with even buttonhole stitching. A floral spray and butterflies are portrayed on the sheer batiste surface by means of the needle. A graceful pattern, small flowers and butterflies and the use of appropriate

Gold Fringe Trimming.

Do you remember the time when the mere mention of fringe as a trimming for gowns caused you to curl up your lips and elevate your nose? Do not distort your features when you read of gold fringe trimming an evening gown of point d'esprit, for it is most effective and really enables the gown to be described as gorgeous. The fringe is used around the bottom of the skirt, in a diagonal line across the front of the bodice and along the edge of the flowing sleeves of tulle.

A Cattle Story.

And now Maud Veal has eloped with Charles Bull. They had to elope, as the Veals were beefing and Miss Veal couldn't stand the roasting by her parents. Bull also feared they would cow her. This is only the meat of a story in the Wilson County Citizen, and it isn't bull.—Chanute Tribune.

PLEASED A BREEZY DRUMMER

Not At All Disturbed When Informed He Had Taken Judge Hornbuckle's Seat at Table.

"Now, this is the way I like to be treated in a hotel," said the breezy drummer, as he sat down to breakfast in the Pikeville house. "The morning paper is lying beside my plate."
"I beg your pardon, boss," said the head waiter, in considerable agitation. "You're in Judge Hornbuckle's seat. He's been settin' there for twenty years an'—an'—he's due here at any minute."
"I should worry," was the drummer's only reply.
"Well, maybe you kin take keer of yo'self, boss. I guess you ain't never been befo' de judge, like I has. Dat's why I've gwine out an' stay in de kitchen till de rucus blows over."

Safety First.

Neighbor—What was the trouble in your flat this morning, Willie?
Little Willie—No trouble at all.
Neighbor—But what was all that noise?
Little Willie—Oh, that was father trying to save the price of a shave.

What's Your Hurry?

"It takes a small only twelve days, three hours, four minutes and twenty seconds to go a mile," she read from the newspaper.
"Yes," he admitted, "but then she doesn't have to dress for theater first."

Rained Pitchforks.

"Did you ever see it rain pitchforks here?" asked the city man in the country.

"Sure," replied the farmer, "my neighbors gave me a pitchfork 'show-er' when I was married."

Some Name.

"What is your name, my little boy?"
"Caesar, sir."
"Well, you're named after a great man."
"No, I ain't, either. I was named after my uncle's dog."

Heard on the Train.

"What book is that you are reading, Jim?"
"The Sorrows of Satan."
"Well, I'll say this for you, Jim; you always do take an interest in the troubles of your friends."

His Way.

"How did you become so rich? Have you always earned more than you spend?"
"Not a bit of it, young man, but I've always managed to spend less than I earned."

ALL IN THE GAME.

METHODS OF FILLING SILOS.

Careful Tramping and Leveling, Together With Other Essential Features, Are Important.

(By W. E. MARKEY, Wisconsin Experiment Station.)

Haphazard methods of filling silos have spoiled many thousand tons of good corn, and often given silage a "black eye." Careful tramping and leveling, together with other essential features in filling the silo are important.

Corn makes the best silage when the majority of the ears are dented, or just beginning to glaze. If corn is put into the silo before this stage of maturity is reached, the silage becomes very sour or acid, and is apt to have a low feeding value.

When corn becomes dry from being frosted or allowed to get ripe, it will make good silage if water is added at filling time. No definite rule can be given as to the right amount of water to add, but the aim should be to make the moisture content equal to that of green corn.

It is very essential that the cut corn be thoroughly mixed after it is elevated or blown into the silo. If this is not done, the heavier portions will fall in one place and cause the silage to settle unevenly, resulting in much loss, due to spoiling.

During the process of filling, the cut material should be kept slightly higher at the edges than in the center, and well tramped close to the sides where friction prevents it from settling. It is not necessary to tramp in the center of the silo, for the weight of the silage there is sufficient to insure thorough packing. Silos that are deep and of large diameter require less tramping than those of smaller dimensions.

In a Bad Fix.

The well-beloved Bishop of a certain Southern State is so absent-minded that his family is always apprehensive for his welfare when he is away from home. Not long ago, while making a journey by rail, the Bishop was unable to find his ticket when the conductor asked for it.

"Never mind, Bishop," said the conductor, who knew him well, "I'll get it on my second round."

However, when the conductor passed through the car again the ticket was still missing.

"Oh, well, Bishop, it will be all right if you never find it," the conductor assured him.

"No, it won't, my friend," contradicted the Bishop. "I've got to find that ticket. I want to know where I'm going."—Youth's Companion.

PERMISSION TO SEE TROOPS

Admiralty Clerk Cheerfully Gave Up His Window to Gentleman With Numerous Relatives.

An ingenuous clerk in the British admiralty was asked by a gentleman with whom he had a slight acquaintance whether he might come to his room to see a review of the troops.

"Certainly," replied the clerk.

"May I bring my wife?"

"Yes."
"I have two daughters; may they come?"

"By all means."
A second time the gentleman called to ask whether a few nieces might be added to the band.

To this the clerk cheerfully assented.

"We cannot be sufficiently grateful to you," said the gentleman, "for enabling us to have so good a view of the review."

"I am afraid," answered the clerk, "that you and your family will not see very much of it, for my room looks out into a back yard."

Letting the Bars Down.

"Shall I say 'the smart set is,' or 'the smart set are'?" queried the cub reporter.

"Say what you like," growled the editor. "Whenever I have anything to say about the smart set I throw my grammar at the office cat."

Soft Drinks Barred.

Three crows sat on the limb of a tree, and they were as dry as crows could be. Said one old crow: "I really think we'll surely die with naught to drink." Said another crow: "I can't see why—for there a crowbar stands near by."

RIGHT THERE.

"Her husband was run over."
"Now that he is gone, I presume she realizes his full value."
"She does. And she won't compromise for a cent less."

Natural Sequence.

Mrs. Caller—I suppose you have a speaking acquaintance with the woman next door.

Mrs. Neighbors—I did have for a week after she moved in, but we are so well acquainted now that we don't speak at all.

No Room for Argument.

"It looks like rain this morning," said the milkman, while serving a customer.

"Yes," answered the woman as she glanced into the pitcher, "it sure does."

No Obligation.

"Whatever I have accomplished," said the pompous man, "I owe to myself."

"How delightful it must be," murmured a weary listener, "to be so clear of debt."

As Suggested.

The Other—You have been misinformed. I am engaged in conducting a state-wide campaign of education.

The Particular Age.

Patience—They've got a new cook.

Patrice—So I hear.
"Is she up to date?"

"Why, yes; I believe she was sterilized when they got her."

Good Reason.

"Les me kiss you?" asked the man.

"No," said the sweet young thing. "Why not? No one will ever know it."

"Well, I don't want to be kissed if I'm not going to know it."

Yes, Which?

PUTS BAN ON ANCIENT JOKES

Bank Teller, Driven to Desperation, Officially Announces the "Canning" of Musty Witticisms.

The paying teller in one of the large trust companies, which has many woman depositors, has just had this framed and hung up on the wall of his "cage":

"Notice—The following old jokes are officially canned:

"1. The joke about the woman who drew a check wrong, threw it into the fire, and then called up the bank in a panic and asked that payment on the check be stopped immediately.

"2. The joke about the woman who went into a bank and thought she could open the same kind of an account as in a department store, settling up at the end of the month.

"3. The joke about the woman who, when her husband opened a bank account for her, was afraid to draw checks because she thought people might find out how much she was spending and what it was for.

"4. The joke about the woman who, when told by the bank that she had overdrawn her account, insisted that it couldn't be, as she had several blank checks left in her check book.

"5. The joke about the woman who went up in the air and was grievously insulted because the cashier (who lived on the same street) insisted that she must be identified upon presenting a check for payment."

No Doubt That Resinol Does Heal Sick Skin

When you know physicians have prescribed Resinol for 20 years in the treatment of eczema and other itching, burning, unsightly skin eruptions, and have written thousands of reports saying: "It is my regular prescription for itching," Resinol has produced brilliant results. "The result it gave was marvelous in one of the worst cases of eczema," etc., etc., doesn't it make you feel that "this is the treatment I can rely on for MY skin trouble?"

The moment Resinol Ointment touches itching skins, the itching stops and healing begins. With the aid of Resinol Soap, it almost always clears away every trace of eczema, ringworm, pimples, or other distressing eruption quickly, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

VITAL FORCE

Disease germs are on every hand. They are in the very air we breathe. A system "run down" is a prey for them. One must have vital force to withstand them. Vital force depends on digestion—on whether or not food nourishes—on the quality of blood coursing through the body.

DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery
Strengthens the weak stomach. Gives good digestion. Enlivens the sluggish liver. Feeds the starved nerves. Again full health and strength return. A general upbuilding enables the heart to pump like an engine running in oil. The vital force is once more established to full power. Year in and year out for over forty years this great health-restoring remedy has been spreading throughout the entire world—because of its ability to make the sick well and the weak strong. Don't despair of "being your old self again." Give this vegetable remedy a trial—Today—Now. You will soon feel "like new again." Some Trees

An appreciative description of our famous California Redwoods by Senator H. W. Young, present editor of the Coquille (Ore.) Sentinel, who was a recent visitor here with relatives, the C. H. Whitman family, is given here in part.

"In the Big Basin we found quite a colony of campers at the 'Governor's Camp,' right among the big trees, which are of the cedar family and known botanically as the 'Sequoia Sempervirens.' With a long piece of cord we measured the circumference of two of these finding one 57 feet around and the other 81, which made their diameters about 19 and 27 feet respectively.

At Felton is the tree named for General Fremont, which is hollow, and the inside of whose cavity is still charred from the flames, as are portions of the bark of every one of these big trees. When Gen. Fremont was here with his wife and daughter in 1846, he camped in the hollow of this tree which is 18 feet and in which 75 sailors and 40 tourists have found room.

Then we looked up to the summit of the Gen. Grant, which although only 55 feet in circumference, is the tallest tree of which we have seen any record. It now stands 306 feet in height, 75 feet of the top having fallen a few years ago cutting it from its original 381 feet.

One of the most interesting things we noticed in this grove was the circular line of trees and decaying protuberances which indicated the outlines of what must have been a greater tree than any known in the world today, with a diameter of 40 or 50 feet. On the rim thus indicated for the old tree which must have died hundreds and perhaps thousands of years ago was evidently one of the females—we saw groups of great trees growing, and and some of them, likewise daughters, surrounded with families of their own.

Of the age of these trees we should speak with some hesitation had we not very recently received from the department of the interior at Washington a bulletin on Our National Parks and the giant Sequoia trees they contain which states the concentric rings of annual growth counted in one specimen as 3,150.

Drying Raisins.
Where there is enough autumnal sunshine and heat raisins may be dried on the vines. Sometimes the growers partly cut the stalks before the grapes are quite ripe. This stops the flow of sap. The usual way is to cut off the clusters and spread them in the sun for several days. They must be protected from rain. They may be dried in a heated room, but the product is inferior. In some parts of Spain and France the clusters are dipped into boiling water or a strong potash lye. This softens the skin, helps drying and gives a glossy appearance. In Asia Minor hot water on which swims a layer of olive oil is used.—New York Sun.

On Talking Too Low.
"We Americans are of two kinds; we either talk too loud or too low, particularly in public places. A European family will sit down in public without feeling the necessity of putting a muf on the voice and retiring as though behind a wall. They are not noisy or gay, they do not foot on the horns, but they say what they wish without lowering the tone to that painful depth which we mistake for a cultivated note. Let us be brave and be ourselves, for nothing can be better than that."—Louise C. Hale in Century.

The Dean's Retort.
One Sunday morning at his church Dean Hole noticed a tipsy man in the congregation. He bore his presence until it was no longer possible and then came to a halt with the question, "Are you fit to remain in God's house?"

The man got up unsteadily and was helped to the door by a parishioner who made himself useful in emergencies.

"James," said Hole after the service was over, "what did you do with that man?"

"The useful parishioner replied, 'I put him on a tombstone, sir.'"

The indignant vicar's retort was, "Couldn't you have put him under it?"—London Mail.

His Death.
"Where did you work last and how long?" demanded the colonel. "Did you quit of your own accord or were you discharged, and?"

"Loopy yuh, boss!" sourly returned Brother Bogus. "I jant' no postpaid marriage to yo'; I's axin' for a job."—Puck.

MADE IN GERMANY

THE most famous trademark in the world is doomed, according to American importers. They say German manufacturing firms are very generally abandoning the "Made in Germany" label that has for decades been used on all German products, and that action is taken with the secret encouragement of the German government.

The immediate cause is the difficulty of selling goods in hostile markets, or even getting them safely through to neutral markets, if they are known to be of German origin. In order to hold some of their foreign trade, it is said that manufacturers are sending their products first to Holland, Switzerland, and Scandinavian countries, and then having them reshipped with trade marks representing them as made there rather than in Germany. Some German firms are even said to have bought factories in the adjacent neutral countries so that they may ship their goods there in an incomplete state, putting the finishing touches on them in the neutral factories, and exporting them as "Made in Switzerland," "Made in Holland," etc.

The real significance of this expedient, say the importers supposed to be in the secret, is that the Germans apparently intend to continue it when the war is over. They know that not only in all the hostile countries and their dependencies throughout the world, but even in many neutral countries adverse sentiment will be so strong that the German label will handicap rather than help their sales.

If all this is true, if Germany after the war will have to take up the stupendous task of regaining her lost world-trade anonymously instead of with her customary boldness and directness, it is the most striking indication yet given of the grievous price that German industry and commerce will have to pay for German militarism.—Santa Rosa Democrat.

LOYALTY

IF you work for a man, in heavens name work for him. If he pays you wages that supply your bread and butter, work for him; speak well of him; stand by him and stand by the institution he represents. If put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must vilify, condemn and eternally disparage, why, resign your position, and when you are outside damn to your heart's content. But, as long as you are a part of the institution, do not condemn it. If you do you are loosening the tendrils that bind you to the institution, and the first high wind that comes along you will be uprooted and blown away in the blizzard's track, and probably you will never know why.—Elbert Hubbard.

Grandpa Brown had the pleasure of a call Thursday afternoon from two Missouri doctors, J. R. Hall of Marshall, and his nephew, Charles Caldwell of Slater, the former having been grandpa's old family doctor. Thru the courtesy of B. O. Curry they were given a glimpse of the town and an opportunity to meet a few friends, among them Dr. T. L. Blanchard. Dr. Hall was here seven years ago and notes many changes in the place, and in the prosperity of its citizens. Dr. Hall who is doing the exposition, hopes to come again and see more of the Orchard City.

Mustered Out

Another veteran answered the last call Wednesday night, when Ichabod Preston passed away.

Mr. Preston was a native of Maine where he passed his boyhood, living later in Pennsylvania and Eau Claire, Wis., from which place he came here, twenty-four years ago. He was 76 years, 8 months and 10 days old.

Mr. Preston was one of the first volunteers, enlisting at the age of 23, in the 85th N. Y., Co. D., and serving thruout the war. He was a prisoner for a year in Andersonville where his health was undermined and he never recovered from the effects. Mr. Preston was the last survivor of his company.

Deceased has been ill for the past two weeks; altho he was out the day before his death, which resulted from heart trouble.

Forty-one years ago he was married, his wife surviving him, as do also his two sons, Arthur of Aloha, Ore., and Ellis, of Campbell.

The funeral services will be held in the Congregational church, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Preston has been a good citizen during his many years residence here, and he, with his familiar express wagon, will be missed from our streets, as well as from his favorite seat in church.

His sorrowing wife and sons are extended every sympathy.

G. C. Gill, of Gill Bros. Dairy, who has not completely recovered from his recent operation, has gone to Mendocino county to look after the ranch there for a while.

Special Notice. On account of the death of Mr. Preston, the birthday social has been postponed one week and will be given in conjunction with the bonfire social.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ludwig of Modesto came last week for a visit with their son, C. J., and family. Mr. Ludwig attended the M. E. conference going up with W. H. Stuart by auto.

The J. C. Ainsley Cannery closed work on green fruit Wednesday afternoon, after a successful season. A crew of about forty local people will be employed for some time yet, packing prunes and preparing "fruit salad."

Rev. W. H. Lloyd, S. G. Rodeck, Frank Graves and N. G. Finley, are attending the State M. E. Conference which is in session at San Francisco this week. Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes is presiding and Rev. C. J. Irons of San Jose has been elected secretary.

Crowded Again

The faculty and grammar school board have been having their troubles this week to try to accommodate the pupils who have so far entered school. Part of the rooms were crowded to suffocation and more scholars coming in soon.

Present conditions have been alleviated somewhat by removing the temporary partition that had made Prof. Kammerer's room out of Miss Sawyer's, and letting the 6th and 7th grades occupy it all.

A new partition has been put up cutting the room Miss Farley had into two, one of which the 8th grade will occupy and the 1st grade the other, because primary seats are smaller and more can be crowded into a small room.

Miss Farley has all of the 2nd and 3d grades and she will have the room Miss Clark had have.

The enrollment by rooms so far is: Miss Clark, 29; Miss Farley, 56; Miss Atkinson, 43; Miss Sawyer, 42; and Mr. Kammerer, 13, and more to enter.

Still we don't need a new school house!

Warning

The California Fish and Game Commission will not recognize any receipt for money paid in lieu of any hunting or fishing license.

All persons holding such receipts must procure legal licenses or they will be liable to arrest.

HUNTING LICENSE ACT. Section 1.

"Every person in the State of California, who hunts, pursues or kills any of the wild birds or animals, excepting predatory birds of animals, without first procuring a license therefor, as provided by this act, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

ANGLERS' LICENSE ACT. Section 1.

"Every person over the age of eighteen years who, in the State of California, takes, catches, or kills any game fish for any purpose other than for profit, without first procuring a license therefor, as provided in this act is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Section 431 of the Penal Code provides: "Every person who uses or gives any receipt, except that prescribed by law, as evidence of the payment of any poll tax, road tax, or license of any kind, or who receives payment of such tax or license without delivering the receipt prescribed by law, or who inserts the name of more than one person therein, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Her Unfortunate Plight.

Mrs. Camso—Poor Mrs. Darley complains that she can't get any new gowns. Mrs. Fangle—Why, I thought she married a ladies' tailor? Mrs. Camso—So she did and that's just the trouble. Her husband is so busy with orders that he can't make his wife's gowns, and, of course, it would never do for her to go elsewhere.—Pittsburgh Press.
